the future of video conferencing.

New technology and features are solving past pain points for a more personal experience.

Beamforming Audio

Ensures premium audio quality by creating beams from the speaker to the receiver within the room, while supporting signal reception.

Speaker Recognition

Make sure the right person gets visibility with cameras that follow sounds, zooming in on whoever is speaking.

Acoustic Fencing

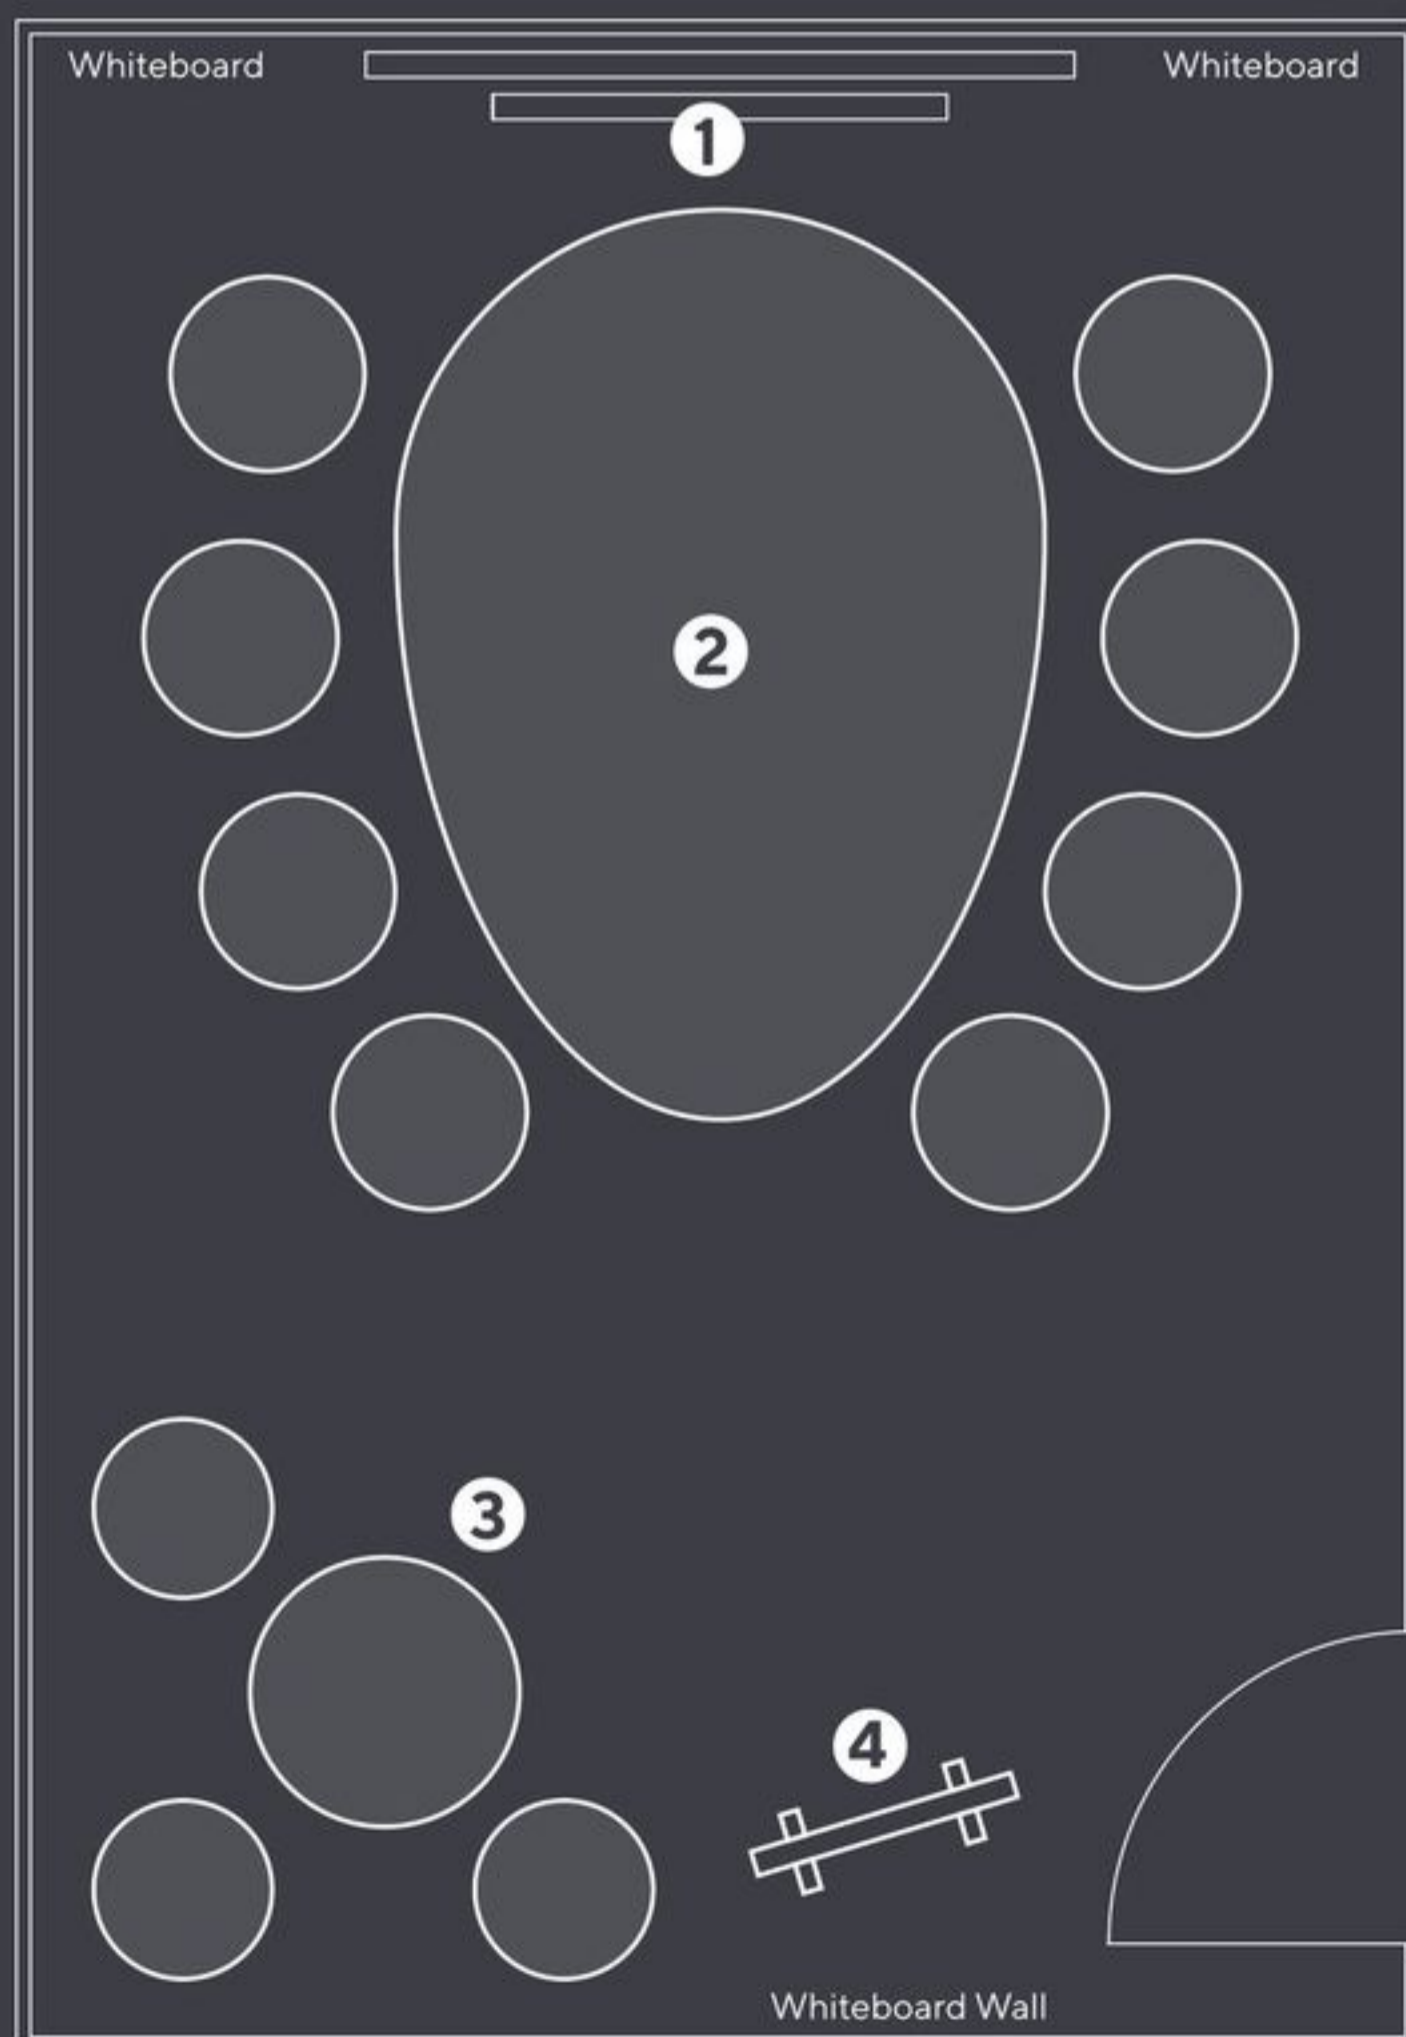

Eliminate distracting background noises with this technology in which multiple microphones create a virtual audio fence around the speaker.

Enhanced Quality

Relying more and more on video, workers require a better quality picture and clearer audio for seamless communication.

the new conference room

1 Screen Placement: Put the presentation displays above a smaller display that shows remote colleagues. Camera goes in between for better eye contact.

Screen Size: Screen is roughly table width. Reduces chance that someone's head will block part of the screen.

2 Main Table: Table curved to give everyone a view. No chairs at head of table to block screens.

Bonus! Make it bar height: Bar height table adds flexibility to stand or sit. Standing up won't interrupt or feel dominant.

3 Outfield Table: Spillover from main table, for people taking notes or driving whiteboard conversations. Great as high top table with stools.

4 Whiteboard Cart: Flexible for breakaway conversations, visibility, and allows work to leave the room post-meeting.

For smaller rooms and huddle spaces. These solutions work for project check-ins and working meetings from one-on-ones to teams of two to six. Learn more about adapting your small space for greater interactivity.
